Update on: Grace Pauline Mazinyani

Sandbakken barnehage,

SOS Mum Hazvineyi and her SOS family at their home

Time has flown past and I get to write to you again about your sponsored child Grace. Can you imagine what milestones the sweet little Grace has achieved from the last time I was in touch? You could be in for big surprises! Thank you for your continued support.

A little War

Grace has been mummy's baby for quite a while and it was until recently that her world seemed to crumble around her. Guess what could have happened along the way! Before then, she would not let anyone greet her if she is not in her mother's hands. Things are however now a bit sour for her as there is a new baby in the house! 'Grace will not let me touch the baby!' said Hazvinei, her SOS mother, laughing. She sure has to find a plan to keep Grace happy.

'No baby stop it!' says Grace removing the baby's hand from Hazvinei' 'leave my mama alone.' Hazvinei would just laugh it off and reassures her that she will have her turn soon. This makes Grace sulk but she has no choice!

Grace is still trying to talk so she makes her feelings clear by crying for Hazvinei's attention and try poking at the baby! You must witness this. However, this petty jealousy will soon come to an end when Grace gets used.

The little baby girl Grace loves her mashed potatoes so much but she will not eat them unless it is Hazvinei feeding her. It really is a little war but mum Hazvi, gives both her equal attention.
